As this will be my final IIJ newsletter, let me acknowledge how greatly I appreciate all of the support given to the IIJ over the last three years. The team here in Malta is first rate, and I have every confidence that the IIJ will continue to flourish under Tom’s leadership.

As this newsletter indicates, it has been a busy stretch for the IIJ. We are increasingly holding programs outside of Malta -- in Dakar, Jakarta, Addis Ababa, Siracusa, and Marrakesh in just the last few weeks -- as we are also building our core initiatives at the IIJ. Our financial support continues to diversify with new funds from Canada, Germany, the UK, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and the EU. Our internal capacity likewise grows with the addition of a prison expert (Monique Kamies) from the Netherlands and EULEX. With Malta's EU Presidency in full swing, the number of visitors to Valletta and to the IIJ continues to grow, and we plan for my final program next month at the IIJ to be a major conference that will look at "Beyond FTFs" -- examining the growing trend of terrorism cases that are directed or inspired by terrorist organizations as they seek to employ or encourage external terrorist operations outside conflict zones as their physical space within conflict zones is starting to diminish.

I am delighted to report that, at the March meeting of the IIJ's Governing Board of Administrators, the Board selected Thomas Wuchte, currently head of the OSCE's Action Against Terrorism (ATU) in Vienna, to be my successor as Executive Secretary. The OSCE has already partnered with the IIJ on programs and Tom will bring a wealth of experience in holding criminal justice programs for practitioners as well as a deep understanding of the IIJ, the GCTF, and IIJ partner institutions. He will be arriving here in Malta in late June and his CV is described in greater detail below.

Message from the Executive Secretary

Robert Strang
IIJ Executive Secretary

The IIJ Welcomes New Executive Secretary: Thomas Wuchte

Mr. Thomas A. Wuchte joins the IIJ from his position as the Head on Anti-Terrorism Issues in the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE). He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point and received a post-graduate degree in International Relations from the University of Illinois. He has extensive experience in government to government, non-governmental, academic, and multilateral co-operation throughout the IIJ region, as well as with many regional organizations such as the African Union. As the focal point for all OSCE counter-terrorism activities, he supported the political process within the OSCE’s 57 participating States to maintain and strengthen the role of the organization as an effective framework for addressing the terrorist threat, in close co-ordination with the United Nations and the Global Counterterrorism Forum (GCTF). Before assuming his duties at the OSCE, Mr. Wuchte was the United States Special Coordinator for United Nations Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 1540 and received the U.S. Department of State’s Award for Excellence in International Security Affairs for his efforts to work collaboratively with international partners.

Capacity-Building Program for Prosecutors in MENA and Sahel

May 20-22, 2017, Marrakesh, Morocco

The workshop focused on the development of strategies that provide for an effective relationship between the investigation and the prosecution and lead to lawful and human rights compliant cases before the court; the nature and quality of evidence in investigation and prosecution so that the evidence is available for use in court proceedings; and court processes and proceedings.
